DOCUMENT PROCESSING PILOT — INTERNAL MEMO

Synthetic operational memo for mixed-format classification tests

Internal document | Ref: OPS-MEMO-26-14 | 03 November 2026

Purpose of This Memo

This memo describes a fictional document-control pilot and intentionally mixes numbered headings, unnumbered headings, short labels and tabular content.

Current Situation

Teams receive purchase orders, supplier agreements, research reports and operational procedures as PDF files. Manual classification takes time and can produce inconsistent labels.

Observed issues

Common issues include inconsistent heading styles, scanned pages, repeated footer text and tables that interrupt paragraph flow.

Pilot Plan

Phase 1 — Sample collection

Collect representative documents from each category and remove confidential information before using them in the test environment.

Phase 2 — Processing

Text extraction

Extract text while retaining page order, line breaks and available font or layout metadata.

Heading classification

Assign heading levels based on typography, numbering, position and semantic context. Do not treat every short line as a heading.

Phase 3 — Evaluation

Compare predicted labels with a manually reviewed reference set. Record precision, recall and common error patterns.

Acceptance Criteria

ID	Criterion	Expected result
AC-01	Recognise document title	Title label or metadata
AC-02	Recognise major sections	H1
AC-03	Recognise nested sections	H2/H3 as appropriate
AC-04	Preserve ordinary text	Paragraph
AC-05	Handle tables	Table content not mislabelled as headings

Risks and Mitigations

Layout variation

Mitigation: include documents with different fonts, spacing, numbering schemes and page structures.

OCR noise

Mitigation: test extracted text from both digitally generated PDFs and scanned PDFs, and flag low-confidence pages.

Decision Required

The project owner should approve the sample set and evaluation rubric before the pilot begins.

Appendix — Glossary

Heading

A line or phrase that identifies a section or subsection.

Body paragraph

Explanatory text belonging to a section rather than naming the section.
